COMMUNICATION WITH SCHOOL

Building a Foundation for Partnerships

WEBINAR

Monday 11th May 2020

LIVE Session - 11:00AM - 12:00PM

Monday 18th May 2020

Recorded Session - 7:30PM - 8:30AM

Successful partnerships between the student, family and the school are critical for successful inclusion, and the best educational and social outcomes for students with disability. Currently Queensland students, families and teachers are facing new challenges with learning from home, but effective collaboration remains as important as ever, perhaps more so with less opportunity for informal and face-to-face interaction.

This webinar will discuss:

- Building blocks for effective partnerships - in both "ordinary" and "extraordinary" times
- What can parents expect: the DoE Parent and Community Engagement framework
- Common barriers to partnership - and how to avoid them!
- Achieving common understandings through effective listening and assertive communication
- Effective parent advocacy - with specific tips for email and phone advocacy

See next page for booking and more information

This webinar will help families maintain a focus on their vision and goals for their son or daughter, no matter what the current educational context.

There will be a focus on families identifying what a quality education and good inclusion looks like for them, and how they can communicate their knowledge of their child and their goals to achieve the best outcomes for their child.

ABOUT THE WEBINAR FORMAT

The content will be the same for both sessions. Each session will involve a presentation on the topic followed by a chance for you to submit questions that will be answered by the CRU team in a Q and A session.

By registering, you will receive a link to access via Zoom.

If you are concerned about the reliability of your internet connection, it will also be possible to phone in.
